

ILLNESS

OF KING EDWARD VII. CAUSES SOME FEAR

THAT CORONATION MAY HAVE TO BE POSTPONED.

WENT TO WINDSOR ON MONDAY.

The Belief is Gaining at Aldershot That the illness is of a Serious Nature.

London, June 16—(Bulletin)—Replying to a message regarding the reported developments in the King's condition Sir Francis Knollys, his majesty's secretary, wires as follows: "Royal Pavilion, Aldershot, Monday 3:13 p. m. The best answer I can give you is the King goes to Windsor this afternoon."

London, June 16—(Bulletin)—It is now stated that King Edward's illness is so serious that it may cause a postponement of the coronation.

London, June 16—The Exchange Telegraph company's Aldershot, Eng., correspondent wires that King Edward's illness has become of a much more serious nature than at first expected. The King has lumbago caused by a chill.

Aldershot, Eng., June 16—While no official information has yet been vouchsafed, the belief is gaining ground here that the illness of King Edward is of a serious nature.

There were several incidents here to strengthen this opinion. In the first place the King did not attend the review. Queen Alexandra, the Princess of Wales and the Princess Victoria went instead, driving to the field in a closed carriage because of the inclement weather. An air of depression was noticeable about the royal pavilion, where the King is housed, and disquieting rumors about the place were other signs that the King's illness was apparently more than a temporary indisposition.

It was stated that the king suffered great pain yesterday and that laudanum was administered to relieve it.

When the 30,000 troops marched out on Laffan's plain today the rain fell in a steady downpour. The weather cleared soon after the review began, but the men had been soaked and presented a rather bedraggled condition.

Queen Alexandra presented new colors to the Highland Light Infantry and the march past the royal stand followed. Earl Roberts, commander in chief, led the way.

London, June 16—Today's reports from Aldershot that King Edward is worse, finds general belief in London. It is now recalled that during the past fortnight His Majesty has constantly exposed himself to wet weather. At Epsom, at the trooping of the colors, and at the polo match, the King remained in the open during a chilling rain.

The possibility of the coronation being postponed is now being discussed. Stand speculators are worried.

COPPERHEAD

SNAKE ATTACKED TWO LITTLE CHILDREN.

Their Feet Were Badly Swollen and Discolored, but Remedies Used Saved Them.

Titus Hankinson's two children Raymond, aged six, and Bessie, aged eight were bitten by a copperhead snake at their home on Brushy Fork creek northwest of Newark Saturday afternoon.

The children were barefooted and were playing near the house when each was bitten on the foot by a copperhead snake which was shortly afterwards killed by Mr. Hankinson.

The children's feet were badly swollen and discolored in spite of the prompt attention, but the use of soda, alcohol and poultices soon had no effect and no further trouble is anticipated.

PLOT

To Assassinate Emperor Franz Josef Discovered, But the Men Implicated Have Disappeared.

Vienna, June 16—An anarchistic plot to assassinate Emperor Franz Josef has been discovered. A Trieste tailor who was allotted the task, has disappeared.

The police are in a fever of apprehension as the emperor disdains to accept a close guard and drives daily from Schoenbrunn to the palace in Vienna in an open carriage. His Majesty passes through crowded streets and is an easy target for an assassin's bullet. The detective force has been strengthened by 1000 men.

DROUGHT

In Texas is Becoming Alarming—Big Mass Meeting Monday to Pray for Rain.

Fort Worth, Texas, June 16.—The drought over northern and central Texas is becoming alarming. Crops are burning up on account of the hot winds and unless rains fall within the next few days, the corn crop will be a total failure. Business was entirely suspended at Taylor's between 10 and 11 o'clock today and a union mass meeting of citizens held at which prayers were offered up from the Baptist church asking for rain. Stock is being shipped out by the hundreds as many cattle are dying for want of water.

PULLED PISTOL

AND STRUCK CARL WAGERS ON THE HEAD.

Latter Then Caused Warrant to be Issued, But Negro Had Taken to His Heels.

Carl Wagers, aged about 18, Monday fled an affidavit before Mayor Ferry on which a warrant was issued for the arrest of Edward Payne, a young colored man on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

According to Wager's story Payne without any provocation engaged in a quarrel with him on the railroad in "Oklahoma", Sunday evening about 7 o'clock, during which Payne pulled a pistol and struck him over the head, cutting an ugly gash which had to be sewed up.

A crowd soon gathered and a threatening demonstration was made toward the negro who took to his heels, and disappeared in the underbrush along the North Fork, and he has not been seen since.

Payne was released from the county jail only one week ago, on proceedings brought by his attorney C. W. Miller, to make the prosecuting witness give security for costs in the case then pending against him, he having been bound over from Mayor Ferry's court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The Sunday evening affair created great excitement in the vicinity, and the negro would undoubtedly have been roughly handled had he been caught.

VISIT

TO HAVE NO BEARING UPON THE ANTHRACITE STRIKE.

SO SAYS PRESIDENT MITCHELL AT WILKESBARRE.

DEPUTIES VS. ITALIAN STRIKERS

Twenty Shots Exchanged in Encounter Sunday About Midnight.—Strike News of the Day.

Wilkesbarre, Jan 16.—The fact that Patrick Gilday, union president of the Pennsylvania bituminous district is here conferring with President Mitchell and other soft coal men from the west, and will be in town a week, is thought to indicate that some positive action will be taken upon the proposed national convention of hard and soft coal men to declare a sympathetic strike of the bituminous miners. President Mitchell today, however, declared positively that the soft coal men came to see him regarding matters concerning bituminous affairs and that their visit will have no bearing upon the anthracite strike.

UNIONS WITH STRIKERS.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 16.—"Every labor organization in the United States is in sympathy with the striking anthracite miners because it is the avowed intention of the operators to break up the miners' union and this would be a severe blow at all organized labor."

This statement was made this morning by Paper Clark of Toledo, Ohio president of the international team drivers' association who is here conferring today with President Mitchell with him is Dennis Connell, Pennsylvania state organizer of the teamsters' union.

"I came here," said Clark, "to make an investigation and ascertain what policy our organization should take. I cannot say what the result of my visit will be, but I say now that we are in hearty accord with the miners' movement. Our organization has a membership of 30,000 in the United States and Canada."

"I have the power of ordering our men to refuse to handle either hard or soft coal or to strike but I would not take so important action without securing the consent of our executive board."

"Yes, we could deal a hard blow at the operators for we have a large number of coal drivers in our numbers. I shall remain in the anthracite region for two weeks completing my investigation."

"My conference with President Mitchell today has no more significance than I have stated and my union will take no definite action at this time."

TWENTY SHOTS FIRED.

Old Forge, Pa., June 16.—An encounter between a score of deputies employed at the William A. Colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company at this place, and 200 armed Italian strikers occurred here at 11 o'clock last night. At least twenty shots were fired but so far as known no one was hurt.

PARDON

Sought For a Man Who Stole Bloodhounds Sent After Him and Sold Them to a Farmer.

Columbus, O., June 16.—C. F. Wykoff, of Chillicothe, Mo., is in Columbus attempting to secure a pardon for George Hon, sentenced to the penitentiary for 10 years from Adams county, for forging an order for 25 cents' worth of tobacco. Hon is one of the noted prisoners in the penitentiary. His severe sentence is not so much for his crime as for his actions after it was committed.

Hon was the first prisoner to be confined in the new jail at West Union. The builders of the prison offered a prize of $100 to any man who could escape from its cells.

Hon had been confined in the jail but 24 hours when he made his escape. After he was rearrested he laid claim to the award, but the contractors set up the claim that he had been assisted by some one on the inside and refused to pay it. Hon talked of bringing suit, but at last dropped the matter. The escape became a political issue in the county and destroyed the careers of several politicians.

After Hon's escape the Sheriff put two bloodhounds on his track. Hon made friends with the dogs, stole them and sold them to a farmer for $5. At Manchester he stole the laprobe and cushions from the buggy of the deputy sheriff who was after him. He made his way to Wisconsin and was finally arrested and at last landed in the penitentiary. As he has served three years his friends consider he has been sufficiently punished and will try to secure a pardon.

PRESENTS

For Senator Hanna's Daughter, Bride Today, Are Magnificent and Very Numerous.

Cleveland, June 16.—At 4:30 this afternoon Mabel Hanna, elder daughter of Senator Hanna, was married to Harry A. Parsons, the Senator's secretary. Bishop Leonard of the Episcopal church officiated. The ceremony occurred at the Hanna home on Lake avenue. The house was splendidly decorated. The presents are worth a king's ransom.

Cleveland, O., June 16.—Presents, costly and magnificent, have been arriving by the wagon load at Senator Hanna's home on Lake avenue for Miss Mabel Hanna, who today became the bride of Mr. Henry Parsons. One of the largest rooms in the Hanna residence has been set aside for the display of the gifts and it is filled. In addition to the large number of relatives, men and women of National fame from all parts of the country are sending presents.

From her mother Miss Hanna received a heavy silver coffee set of the latest designs, and from her only sister, Miss Ruth, a handsome after dinner coffee set. Elizabeth, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan R. Hanna, sent her aunt a missive silver salver, magnificently engraved. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hanna sent a large silver bowl.

Mrs. D. P. Rhodes sent her granddaughter a set of flat ware in the popular Cinque fleur design, enclosed in a leather case. From Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parsons, the groom's father and mother, there is a clock and candelabrum of French gilt, artistic and beautiful. The groom gave a wedding book, bound handsomely in white moire silk and mounted in gold, in which the names of the wedding guests and other details concerning the wedding will be inscribed.

Misses Jeannette and Fannie Hanna, cousins of the bride, sent a set of four dozen solid silver knives.

Postmaster General and Mrs. Payne sent a solid silver plate. Senator and Mrs. Wetmore's gift was a solid silver bowl. Ex-Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Cornelius Bliss of New York, presented a chest of Tiffany travilla glass of 24 pieces. One of the gifts that is most appreciated by the bride is that of Maggie Maloney, one of the domestics who has been in the employ of the Hanna family for many years, in fact ever since the bride was a little girl. She sent a handsome cut glass bowl from Washington.

CASH

PAID TO GEN. GOMEZ AMOUNTED TO NINETEEN THOUSAND.

CHARGE THAT IT WAS A BRIBE DENIED BY ROOT.

DODSON COMING FROM CUBA

May Be Given a Chance to Substantiate His Allegations at Washington.

Washington, June 16.—According to figures of official records, $19,000 were paid to General Gomez, out of the fund of Cuba during nine months of 1895 and 1900, and in addition to this he was provided with a house. The official explanation given by Secretary Root is that these payments were a sort of provision for the aged soldiers. The charge or claim that Gomez was given $25,000 as a bribe, either to cause him to withdraw from the Presidential race in favor of the candidate preferred by Washington, or for the purpose of keeping his veterans and admirers in line and favorable to the projects of the administration is emphatically denied. Secretary Root, at the very first disclosure of the amounts received or paid out by General Wood, promptly avowed the responsibility of himself and the President in the matter and declared that an itemized statement of Cuban accounts would be made as soon as Wood could reach Washington and make them up. There has been no change in this assumption of responsibility, although it is now asserted that some time will be consumed in the collection and balancing of items of expense.

In denying the charges made by Charles M. Dodson, formerly a newspaper man at Havana, both General Wood and Secretary Root take occasion not only to contradict the alleged motive for the payments to Gomez, but to discredit the maker of the charges. Dodson is reported to be on his way to Washington, where it is said, he may be given the opportunity to substantiate his allegations.

DEWEY

Is to go to Sea Again in Command of the World's Greatest Fleet—Winter Maneuvers.

Washington, June 16.—Admiral Dewey is to go to sea again, flying his flag with the four stars, in command of the greatest fleet in numbers the United States has got together since the days of the Civil War, and far more powerful in offense and defense even than any of those war fleets. Secretary Moody has conceived the idea, and, after consulting the pleasure of Admiral Dewey, it has been arranged that he shall be placed in supreme command of the fleet (comprising the North Atlantic, the European and the South Atlantic squadrons) in the West Indies, next December, for the winter maneuvers.

Secretary Moody himself desires to witness these maneuvers.

Admiral Dewey goes gladly to his work. It is settled that Secretary Moody will witness the summer movements of the North Atlantic Squadron involving a combined naval and army attack on and the defense of the eastern approaches to New York City. It is expected that he will board the Dolphin for the purpose, and he has invited as his guests Senator Hale, the Chairman of the Senate Naval Committee; Representative Cannon, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and Representative Foss, the Chairman of the House Naval Committee. There will be other guests than these, but Secretary Moody has not yet announced their names.

WOODMEN

DECORATED GRAVES OF FALLEN MEMBERS.

Appropriate Services Held in Newark Cemetery Sunday Morning—Other Services Held Elsewhere.

The members of Cedar Camp, No. 4727, Modern Woodmen of America, met in their camp on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, and at 9:30 o'clock they marched to Cedar Hill cemetery, over two hundred Woodmen being in line. The famous drill team of Cedar Camp led the column, and the standard bearer carried the National colors. At the cemetery the ceremonies consisted of decorating the graves of their deceased brothers with flowers, and giving to each grave the Woodmen honors. Four Woodmen are buried there, being John Tabler, Howard Daniels, George Henry and Fred Connell. At the conclusion of the decoration ceremonies, the Woodmen and friends assembled then gathered on the knoll, where Judge E. M. P. Brister delivered an appropriate memorial address, which was greatly appreciated by all who heard it.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock memorial services were held by Cedar Camp and friends at the Wilson cemetery, five miles north of the city, near Vanatta. Here Woodman Samuel E. Harris, and Mrs. Henry Holler member of the Royal Neighbors are buried. The beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves with flowers was observed, giving to each grave the Woodmen's honor. At the conclusion of the ceremonies attendant upon decorating the graves, the formal program was rendered:

Prayer—Rev. T. M. Higginbotham. Memorial Address—Judge E. M. P. Brister. Benediction—Rev. Mr. Higginbotham.

The grave of Samuel Kiser, a former member of Cedar Camp, at St. Clairsville, was decorated by the St. Clairsville Camp, with appropriate ceremonies.

DEWET

ASKS THE BURGHERS TO REMAIN FAITHFUL TO ENGLAND.

BOERS WHO HAVE SURRENDERED

Already Number 16,500—Boer Leader Says the Result of the War is God's Will.

London, June 16.—Dispatches received here from South Africa show that the surrenders of Boers are proceeding with greatest good will. The total of those who have already surrendered numbers 16,500 and the British are extending every possible kindness to the men who come in.

The appearance of General DeWet at the camp at Winburg was the signal for a great display of enthusiasm. When he arrived at the camp, General DeWet was at once surrounded by thousands of Boer men, women and children, who struggled and clamored to shake the hand of their hero. General DeWet mounted a table and delivered an address. He warmly applauded the staunch support that the women had given the burghers during the war which, he said, had greatly encouraged the men in the field. General DeWet recommended his hearers to be loyal to the new government, and said:

"Perhaps it is hard for you to hear this from my mouth, but God has decided thus. I fought until there was no more hope of upholding our cause, and however bitter it may be, the time has now come to lay down our arms. As a Christian people, God now demands that we be faithful to our new government. Let us submit to his decision."

Neither General DeWet or Mr. Steyn formerly the president of the old Orange Free State, was ever wounded during the war. General DeWet has not seen his wife for two years.

The repatriation committee, which has been formed to assist the Boers in returning to their farms, has a gigantic task before it. The concentration camps will be converted into supply depots to provide the returning burghers with the means to rebuild and restock their farms. The wives and families of the Boers will, if desired, be maintained at the expense of the government while the burghers are pining the farms for their reception. Two thousand of the national scouts, who served upon the British side during the war will immediately be disbanded and each scout will be provided with a pony and enabled to return to his farm.

MARRIAGE

Ended the Romantic Ocean Courtship of Lieut. Day, of Mansfield, and Miss Perrin, of Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 16.—The romantic marriage of Lieut. Willis B. Day of Mansfield, Ohio, to Miss Irene Perrin of this city, has just become known here. When Miss Perrin returned from the Chicago University last January in poor health and started on a Mediterranean cruise with 20 friends from Oak Park, Ill. she had no thought of getting married. She sailed February 8, and on shipboard met Lieutenant Day, of the United States Navy.

They fell in love. The parents of each were kept apprised of a courtship, and they received cablegrams announcing the marriage of the young couple in London. They wanted to be married in Paris and called on the American consul there. In a fairly early way advised them to go to England that day and be married at once for in France the law would require a delay of six months.

The bride is a fine Greek scholar and speaks several languages.

Killed by Washout.

St. Albans, Vermont, June 16—In a washout of a clay bank on the Central Vermont railway near Middlesex at midnight last night, four members of a southbound freight crew were killed and one other was badly injured. The engine of the freight and forty cars were thrown down an embankment. The dead are: George Garry, engineer; Jas. Ferguson, fireman; Francis Clark, conductor; George F. Rouds, brakeman. All lived in this city. Henry Larry, the surviving brakeman, was found crawling along the track with a broken leg. He was trying to reach a railroad station to give an alarm.

An Interchangeable Book.

Another conference has been held at Philadelphia by general passenger agents of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and J. P. Farmer, commissioner of the Trunk Lines association, regarding the proposition to adopt an interchangeable mileage book. While most of the roads are in favor of this change there are a few which are not inclined to look upon the innovation with favor, and until there is unanimous consent it is believed the scheme cannot be adopted.

The New York Central and the Philadelphia & Reading companies are averse to the scheme. All roads now sell a mileage book at the rate of 2 cents a mile, but the interchangeable book is put out at the rate of 3 cents a mile, or $30.00 for the 1,000 mile book, although $10 is refunded if all the requirements are observed. Some of the roads object to this extra cost, and they are of the opinion that many of the regular customers will protest to paying the extra $10. The use of the mileage book is to be restricted to the purchaser or the person whose name it bears. The Reading Railway company now issue a 1,000 mile book which is now good for anyone, and more than one person at a time can ride on it. The officials of this company are averse to giving up its present book, as they think it is of more advantage to the public.

Notwithstanding some roads are against the adoption of an interchangeable mileage book a number of the railroad companies have decided to use a book, and as soon as all the details can be prepared it is to be issued. It is said the Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Chesapeake & Ohio roads will shortly put an interchangeable mileage book into service which will be good on all these lines.

Who has not read of the wild exploits of Nell Gwynn, the flower girl, who obtained such an ascendancy over the Merrie Monarch? SHIP COMBINE SITUATION.

Some Facts About the New Rival British Trust.

The definite organization of the Morgan steamship combination is proceeding with all the speed that could be expected from such a large undertaking. Clement A. Griscom, president of the International Navigation company, and Bernard N. Baker, president of the Atlantic Transport company, will sail for England soon to meet Mr. Morgan and the officials of the other steamship lines that will enter the deal and arrange the details.

While it is generally understood in New York that an effort is being made to form another steamship combination around the Cunard line as a center, it is thought that it has not reached a definite stage yet, says the New York Tribune. In regard to the position of the Cunard line, one prominent steamship agent said recently that it appeared to him that the Cunard line had received two offers and was now giving the British government an opportunity to signify whether it would increase the subsidy paid to the company. The circular issued to the stockholders, he thought, was intended to warn them that "there was something doing" and to manipulate their stock accordingly. As the stock of the Cunard line, unlike that of the White Star line, is listed, it would therefore be possible for an outsider to pick up some of it without declaring his object in buying it.

Sir Alfred Jones and Sir Christopher Furness were mentioned in the English dispatches as being interested in the so called rival British combination. They are among the leading steamship men of England. The former is at the head of the Elder, Dempsey & Co. lines, which control about 150 ships, with an estimated tonnage of 431,290. The vessels of this fleet would probably form the basis of the freight fleet of such a combination. Furness is an ironmaster, a shipbuilder and interested in several steamship companies, including the Chesapeake and Ohio Steamship company, operating steamers from Newport News and Norfolk to Liverpool and London in conjunction with the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Southern and the Norfolk and Western railroads. Such a combination would bring together more than 250 steamers, with an aggregate of nearly a million tons. The Morgan combination, exclusive of the German lines, which have a tonnage of about a million and about 250 ocean steamships, will number 124 vessels and have a tonnage of about 900,000. It is said that the British combination would include the Allan and Union-Castle lines.

Straw Hats For Merry.

With the coming in of June there recently appeared on Fifth avenue, in New York, a resplendent new turnout with basket work body, the men on the box being fitted out with new, light straw hats in shape exactly like their discarded winter ones, says the New York Press. "Hi! Git on to the straw stovepipes!" shouted an irreverent gambler from the curbstone.

Grievous Sights in Martinique.

Those who visited the desecrated city of St. Pierre before the second eruption beheld the ghastliest sights. Among them were United States Consul Haven, at St. Kitts, and his wife, says the New York Tribune. They said the corpses lay in the streets and houses just as they fell. Consul Haven in one house found a woman and three children dead. The child nearest the door had been terribly burned, but the woman and two little girls seemed to have died peacefully and without a struggle. The bowl of guel and spoon from which two of the children had been eating stood beside their bodies. The woman had reclined on a cot beside the children, and her clay pipe, still half filled, lay on her shoulder with the stem only an inch or so from her lips. There was no distortion of the features. Dr. Haven said he was told by a gendarme that a man had been found with one leg thrown over a donkey, as if in the act of mounting. A gendarme said he had seen a corpse sitting bolt upright in a cart, to which the donkey was attached, both being as rigid as stone.

KENNER

PUT MEN TO SLEEP OVER THE TELEPHONE.

Doctors Tried to Awaken Them But Failed—Will be at Idlewilde All This Week.

Will wonders ever cease? is a question that is asked every day, every hour in the day, but the greatest wonder that the Newark people have ever seen is Prof. Lawrence Kenner, now to be seen at Idlewilde Park at the bicycle track.

Prof. Kenner is nothing but a wonder. Hypnotism has been criticised and jeered at, but those who saw the exhibition that Professor Kenner put forth Sunday evening can never for a moment cease wondering.

The Professor opened his entertainment by going to the central office of the Bell telephone company, and having connections made with Idlewilde park, hypnotized two subjects at one time in the presence of hundreds.

Then the Professor boarded a street car at the square for the Park, about two miles distant and while he was going from the city to the park his subjects were subjected to the most trying tests by two of Newark's most reputable physicians, who tried to awaken them by such tests as pricking with pins, piercing their ears, etc., and yet all this failed to awaken them until with a magic snap of the fingers by the Professor the subjects were awakened.

The Professor has been retained by Mr. Lingafelter for the entire week, and as the exhibition is free to all who attend the park, great crowds are expected.

Professor Kenner is no fakir and gives an entertainment that is highly entertaining as well as educational and he desires the physicians to come upon the stand and awaken his subjects if they can.

Bring in your old furs or come to look at new ones. Fur opening Tuesday and Wednesday—this week.

B. E. MOORE

Of Natural Gas Office Here, Died in Lancaster Sunday—Burial in Pennsylvania.

The sad intelligence was received here of the death of Mr. Barton E. Moore, which occurred at the home of his brother in Lancaster, on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Moore, who has been in the office of the Logan Natural Gas company here for the past three years, having come here from Franklin, Pa., was a young man who was universally respected by all who knew him, and the news of his death was a great shock to his many friends. He had been suffering with Bright's disease of the kidneys for some time, and about three weeks ago left for the Delaware Magnetic Springs, in the hope that he would be benefitted, and was accompanied by his faithful wife, to whom he was but recently married. Instead of being benefitted he grew rapidly worse until last Friday when he was taken to the home of his brother in Lancaster, and as stated above, passed away on Sunday morning. The remains will be taken to Franklin, Pa., this evening for interment. The bereaved young wife has the sympathy of all her friends in her great affliction.

UNCLE ELI'S FABLES.

The Sage and the Peddler Who Lost His Voice.

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.] Traveling along the highway one day, the Sage came upon a Dejected Man who was making preparations to hang himself from the limb of a tree. "I know you not," said the Sage, "but you must be in a great distress of mind to drive you to this." "I surely am," replied the Dejected. "I am called 'John the Roarer.' I am in the street peddling business, and strawberries are my specialty. When I yell 'Strawberries!' I can be heard a mile away."

"But last the strawberry crop for 1902 been declared a failure?" On the contrary, O sage, it promises to be the best for the last ten years. "And hast the bones of thy horse finally fallen apart or the wheels of thy wagon wobbled away beyond recovery?"

"Nay, kind sir. The bones and the wheels may be a little shaky, but they are still doing business at the old stand."

"And then why these grim preparations?"

"For the reason that my voice has gone back on me and I can no longer roar. The loudest yell I can now utter falls to awaken a sleeping babe a hundred feet away. Without a voice to yell what will become of my strawberry trade? How can I bring customers from their domiciles?"

"It looketh a hard case, Friend Roarer," mused the sage as he softly caressed his ear; "but, like all diseases, it hath its own remedy. You must turn from strawberries to string beans."

"But why, O counselor?"

"That they may climb up into the windows and find their own customers, while you simply make change and take care not to hear the measure."

Moral.—Nothing is so bad that it cannot be mended.

THE TRIAL OF LOVE

She had promised herself for life to a man whom she had met only a few days before. These days had passed like a dream, in jest and laughter, without another thought than the pleasure of the moment. To be sure, she had suspected how it might end, but not that it should happen so soon. And not till the promised word was spoken did she awaken out of her dream.

The drawing room clock ticked harder than usual that afternoon, and Elsie kept looking up from her work to notice how the hands flew. It would soon strike 6. But just before the stroke she cast her embroidery away from her, sprang up and rushed out without answering her mother's astonished questions.

Only a few steps beyond the garden she met him. He was punctual to the minute and beamed with joy because she came out to meet him. But when she passed the gate and, proposed to him to walk a little farther he looked at her in surprise. She did not appear very anxious to introduce her lover to her family.

Elsie hastily led the way across the field and up the hill. She threw herself down on a mossy stone under the spruces, and he stretched himself on the heather beside her. The stone was large enough to hold two, but she did not make room for him.

"Are you very sure," she began, breaking a dry twig into tiny bits—"are you really, really sure that you love me?"

At first he looked serious, but then burst out laughing in his bright, jolly way.

"Sure of it? But there is surely no one who has forced me to say it!"

"No. But you don't know me. What is it about me you love?"

"Everything." He loved the folds of her dress, he loved the flower she wore on her breast, and he did not understand that under each question to him lay a question to herself, "What is it I love in him?"

But why should she be the only one to doubt and worry? And so to disturb his composure she began to set forth her faults. She unveiled every mad trait she had. She was quick tempered and a scold; she was envious and coquettish; she was stupid and ignorant. She sat and reckoned herself up in a serious voice; she spoke frankly, and she honestly wished to be believed. But the smile did not leave his lips nor did he take his eyes from her face. At each new confession he simply repeated:

"Yes, I knew that before."

Finally the blood rushed to her head. It annoyed her to find she could not convince him. He sat there in the secure belief that she wished only to humble herself because of her great happiness. Could he not comprehend at all that he had gone wrong in surprising her as he had and that a person cannot be sure of love so loosely rooted?

She knew of a way to make him understand, but her tongue seemed tied when she tried to speak. She sat silent for a few minutes, struggling between fright and the desire to have it out. Finally the desire triumphed.

"No, you do not know me," said she.

"When I answered you as I did this morning, it was because—well, not wholly because—but perhaps partly because—because of hardships at home."

There was a crackling of twigs. He had turned on his arm and was gazing at her without a word, but the color was gone from his face. She need worry no longer about his not understanding.

There came over her a feeling of unspeakable regret. With a few words she had destroyed something she could never get back again. And this something, now it was lost, seemed dearer to her than all else in the world. She did not know him well. She had not succeeded in getting an answer to the question what it was she liked in him, but the power that first drew her to him rose now in redoubled might. The divine, incomprehensible mystery she had tried to explain, but only succeeded in silencing, awoke to life within her again. And now it was too late. What could have the power to efface her words?

"Ah, you are afraid of hardships?" His voice sounded heavy, and his eyes looked far away over the broad meadows visible through the opening in the trees.

"Then it would be best for you to reconsider," he continued. "I am a business man, and my position is not firmly secured. One day there may be money, another debts, and upon one kind of hardship others follow."

The mossy stone stood empty. She had slipped down on the heather beside him. And she took his hand and hid her eyes in it.

"It makes no difference to me, no difference at all, if I have to bear hardships with you," she said softly.

His eyes came back from the far fields. It was only a cloud that had passed over the sun.

He understood now that the little bird he had wished to charm for himself had been frightened only by a too sudden approach, but that it now came of its own accord and that all he had to do was to open his arms.

And she—she knew she must love him whether she could tell why or not, whether it led to joy or sorrow.

In a little while they went back the way they came, but this time they did not pass the garden gate. They opened it and went into the house to her parents.

DUSH-NETHERS.

A happy wedding was celebrated on Thursday afternoon at the country home of Mrs. J. H. Dush and sons, in Eden township. The bride was Miss Nellie Dush, the charming youngest daughter of Mrs. J. H. Dush, and the happy groom was Mr. Frank Nethers a son of Jacob Nethers, a prominent farmer residing near Frazzysburg. The fateful ceremony was performed by the venerable Elder John Pritchard, of St. Louisville, who is over 80 years of age, and who has married all the Dush family for nearly three generations. The bride looked very handsome in a costume of white chaffon, and carried a bouquet of roses. The ceremony took place in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties. Miss Allie Davis, a cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents, as well as hearty congratulations. The best wishes for their future happiness is extended to them. A sumptuous wedding supper was served after which Mr. and Mrs. Nethers went to their new home near Frazzysburg, where they will at once go to housekeeping.

He Believed in Rotation. One day mamma told Milton that he was older than the baby and must let the baby have his toys if he wanted them, because the baby was the littlest.

Milton was very good and went in search of other amusements all day. The next morning we heard a cry from the children, and going to find the cause Milton was found endeavoring to collect all the toys in the room and at the same time keep the baby away from them. Upon inquiring the trouble, Milton said:

"I let him have my toys and be the littlest yesterday, and now I'm going to be littlest today."—Little Chronicle.

Columbus—The State Board of Charities announced that the investigation of the Delaware Industrial school would again be taken up on June 25, and that a report will be forthcoming shortly thereafter.

Lancaster—The loss by storms in the city and county will reach several thousand dollars. The fourth storm, which broke Saturday wrought havoc throughout the city. The new malleable iron works was destroyed by lightning, 25 head of horses and cattle were killed and numerous people were shocked. The rain fall was four inches.

Fredericktown—"What will keep out cold will keep out heat," said Hugh Morrison Saturday, when the mercury was boiling and sizzling around 100, and folks asked him why he dressed as if he were at the North Pole. Whatever there may be in his theory he seems to be the coolest man in the county, though he wears heavy felt boots and an overcoat.

Zanesville—Willie Saunders, aged 10; Carl, Gunion and John Roach, each a year younger, children of Mrs. Naomi Saunders, Charles G. Gunion and John Roach, respectively, started to wade across Licking River almost within a stone's throw of their homes. Gunion led, and going over an offstep called to his companions for help. All were drowned.

Your Vacation in Colorado? Why Not We are going to sell tickets at less than half fare this summer so as to enable people of moderate means to spend their vacations in glorious Colorado.

It is by no means a country of high prices. Our handbook tells all about the hotels, boarding-houses and ranches, their prices, names and addresses of the proprietors, attractions within reach, rates for livery, the fishing and hunting, charges for guides, etc. Ask for a copy. No charge. And with the book we will enclose a circular telling about the railroad ticket rates and trains. It takes only one night on the road to go from Chicago to Colorado. There is no place in the world like Colorado for beauty of mountain scenery and perfection of climate—it is ideal. I have never known anyone to return from Colorado disappointed. Where could you find a more delightful place to spend your vacation?

DEATH

OF MAJOR H. BUXTON OCCURS
AT GRANVILLE.

WELL KNOWN HOTEL MAN PASS-ES TO HIS REWARD.

ODD FELLOWS' MEMORIAL DAY.

Moore-DeBow Wedding Takes Place
Wednesday Next—Fire Alarm,
Kicked by Horse.

Granville, June 16—Major H. Buxton, one of the oldest and most highly respected of the pioneer residents of Licking county, died at his home, the Buxton house, in Granville, on Sunday at 12:20 p. m., after an illness of only a few days. On Tuesday evening of last week he complained of not feeling as well as usual and retired at an early hour. Shortly after retiring he was stricken with paralysis, and this in connection with several other ailments and his advanced age, was the cause of his death. While his death was not unexpected yet it proved a great shock to his many friends.

The deceased was a son of the late David Buxton. He was born in Vermont on October 13, 1820, and came with his father to Alexandria, when quite young. Thirty-seven years ago he came to Granville, and here opened the Buxton House, successfully conducting it ever since. Probably no hotel man in Ohio was better known to the traveling public than was Major Buxton. He was pleasant and agreeable, and his house soon obtained a reputation for its excellence which it retained all the years he was at the head of it. At an early age the deceased was married to Miss Marion Partridge, daughter of the late David Partridge of this place, with whom he lived happily for many years, she having passed away on the 28th of last June.

Two children, Mrs. Minnie Kerr and Fred Buxton of Granville, survive him. Besides these he leaves two brothers and one sister, Oscar Buxton, of Knoxville, Iowa; David Buxton of Alexandria, and Mrs. Dr. Samson of Newark. There also survive him four half-brothers, Charles, Rufus and Henry of Alexandria, and Dr. Buxton of Mt. Gilthead; three granddaughters, Howard and Benton Black sons of Creighton Black, and Horton Buxton, son of Fred Buxton, of this place.

The funeral services, while not fully decided, will probably be held from his late home on Tuesday afternoon, and the remains will be interred in the beautiful Maple Grove cemetery.

Major Buxton probably had a wider acquaintance with public men than any other hotel man in the state. Henry Ward Beecher was his friend. The same was true of the late President McKinley and scores of other statesmen and lecturers who in years past visited Granville either at the commencement season or as speakers on the university lecture course. All these men stopped at the Buxton House in Granville and none went away without a kindly feeling for the good old man who for so many years conducted the hostelry.

For years Mr. Buxton helped many a poor student through Denison university by giving him free board for work about the hotel. At times he had several more than enough students on his hands to do the little work about the house but in this way he helped the boys by giving them an opportunity to help themselves—the best way in the world—and he was content.

Major Buxton will be held in kind remembrance by all Granville.

Children's day was observed in the M. E. church here on Sunday morning by the members of the Sunday school, and an excellent program was rendered.

The members of Myrtle Lodge, No. 350, I. O. O. F. of this place held memorial services here on Sunday. Quite a number of the members of the lodge met at Odd Fellows Hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and after a brief session repaired to Maple Grove, where the graves of their deceased brethren were decorated with flowers, under the supervision of Noble Grand Thomas Jones. The graves of the deceased brothers in the old cemetery and in the Welsh Hills cemetery, were also decorated.

Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of the university and family have taken up their residence in King Hall for the summer.

On and after July 1, services at the Baptist church on Sunday evenings will be discontinued until cooler weather.

Mrs. Edward Moore, a well known and highly esteemed young farmer of Jersey township, this county, and Miss Mabel DeBow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. DeBow of this place, will be married on Wednesday evening of this week. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents at 6 o'clock in the evening.

About 9 o'clock on Sunday morning the fire department was called to the house owned by the Sinnett heirs on Prospect street. The alarm, which caused considerable excitement, proved to be a false one, and was caused by the smoke of the fire pouring from an open stove pipe hole between the ceiling and the roof in the attic.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Wood at their home at "Linden Place" on Sunday morning, a son.

Hugh Evans of Columbus, is the guest of Ike DeBow.

Wm. Hughes a young farmer living a short distance northeast of Granville, while going through a field the other morning, saw a large blue racer on a bush alongside the path on which he was walking. He happened to have a stick in his hand at the time and killed the racer, which is the first seen in that part of the county for some time.

James Rees, a well known young man residing a short distance north of the village on York street, is laid up with injuries sustained by being kicked by a horse on Saturday. Rees had been to town and had started home, when the animal began kicking, one of the kicks landing on Rees' ankle, breaking it. A physician was called who promptly reduced the fracture.

With delightful Spring there comes a delicious languor stealing through the human frame, delightful to those who can turn time to account of personal leisure, but exceedingly trying to men and women who have work to do that calls for resistance and is followed by reaction which can be prevented and counteracted by taking Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil Compound, pleasant to take, containing no grease, and a true tonic, stimulant and body builder.

A Splendid Showing!

The statement of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, published in this issue, shows that it is the largest financial institution in the State of New Jersey. It shows that it has doubled its business in the past fourteen years. The company has saved from favorable mortality over Fifteen Million dollars in the last twenty years; and that it has paid to its policy holders since organization over One Hundred Million in policy claims; nearly Thirty Million for rendered policies, and over Fifty-seven Million in dividends. The company's investments have yielded sufficient returns to pay all expenses and taxes since organization, and still to add to the policy-holders' fund for the fulfillment of existing contracts, nearly Forty-three Million. The company is one of the most economically managed in the country, and policyholders may well congratulate themselves upon the protection and liberal contracts given them by the company.

Doctors Extend Their Time.

Owing to the large number who have been unable to see the British Doctors, These Eminent Gentlemen Have Extended Their Time for Giving Their Services Free for Three Months to All Who Call Upon Them Before July 14th.

Owing to the large number of invalids who have called upon the British Doctors at Flat 2, AVALON FLATS, first floor, west end entrance, 100 W. Main street, and who have been unable to see them, these eminent gentlemen have, by request, consented to continue giving their services entirely free for three months (medicines excepted) to all invalids who call upon them for treatment.

These services consist not only of consultation, examination and advice, but also of minor surgical operations. The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted, and under no conditions will any charge whatever be made for any services rendered for three months, to all who call before July 14th.

The doctors treat all forms of disease and deformities and guarantee a cure in every case they undertake. At the first interview a thorough examination is made and, if incurable, you are frankly and kindly told so, also advised against spending your money for useless treatment.

Male and female weakness, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, also varicose rupture, goitre, cancer, and all diseases of the rectum are positively cured by their treatment. The chief associate surgeon of the Institute is in personal charge.

Hours: 9 to 8, Sundays 10 to 1.

IDLEWILDE

Picnic of I. B. of E. W. Was a Big Success—Bill at Casino for Third Week—Program.

The third week of the park season opened very auspiciously on Sunday. The picnic of the I. B. of E. W. was a grand success in every way and every attraction was liberally patronized. The bill at the casino was one of the best this year. Each number is good, there is not a poor one on the entire program and each act received a liberal amount of applause. Pantomime in artistic posturing and aerial contortions performs several feats new to Newark audiences and by his superb acting shows to a good advantage his wonderful physical strength.

Lizzie McKeever in coon songs and ballads received her share of the applause and makes a pleasing appearance.

Too much praise cannot be given the comedy sketch, "A Wax Doll," by Ruth a pretty little Miss of 12, Gig a good vaudeville comedian and stock actor, and last but not least Claire the little musical wonder. Claire Reynolds is one of the youngest people on the stage and with her extraordinary ability can play a piece of music after hearing it only once. She cannot read a note but plays from ear and from the way in which she performs on the piano a person would think he was listening to an artist. In the "Wax Doll" she plays several very difficult selections and dances, while furnishing her own music. This act alone is worth the price of admission.

Holmes and Waldron present a collection of high class musical treats that never tire.

One of the best acts on the bill is de Mora and Gracetti, the unrivaled European acrobats. They conclude the program with an acrobatic act that can well be styled a novelty and by their feats of agility and astonishing strength elicited a storm of applause.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Young Drummer.

Although he is not higher than a bass drum, little Malcolm Robb Gerlach of Allegheny, Pa., who is but five years old, plays the bass and while he is doing that plays either a snare or kettle drum, just as the occasion demands. The youngster is said to be one of the cleverest little musicians that has ever been seen.

The little wonder is the son of Andrew Gerlach, who for many years was manager of the Great Western band in the heyday of that organization. Mr. Gerlach is now a hotel proprietor in Allegheny. Long ago his parents named the youthful wonder "Honey," and this has dwindled to the abbreviated form of "Hon," and all his friends know him by that name.

Two years ago the youngster began playing on a toy drum, but one year ago Malcolm began following his elder brothers in their rehearsals of orchestration. The elder brothers, two in number, are skilled musicians.

The boys saw that their baby brother was apt, and they taught him some notes, and in six months the youngster could play the trap drum in all of the standard orchestras. But he did not stop there. When the elder boys got new music, Malcolm gets his score too.

He has now acquired the art of reading, and he follows the score as perfectly as any trap drummer could. Set-drum does make a mistake. No matter how difficult the music or how fast it has to be played, the young drummer is equal to the occasion.

He is too small to sit and play, but he leans against a chair and with his right foot on the bass drum pedal and the drum sticks in his hands he watches his score and his brother Eugene until the sign to start is given. Then he applies himself intently to his work, and his eye never leaves his music until the piece is finished.

Snow and Hail.

Why water should sometimes fall as soft snow crystals and at others in hard lumps of ice ball is a question of interest. The difference is entirely one of time. Snow crystals are formed very slowly, the frozen atoms of water grouping themselves with mathematical precision around different centers. Hail, which generally falls in warmer weather, is rain frozen suddenly by a sharp drop of temperature in the upper air. Wind nearly always accompanies hail, while the larger and more perfect snowflakes are always formed in calm air.

RELIEF IN ST. VINCENT

Method of Distributing Supplies on the Island.

DIFFERENT FROM MARTINIQUE'S.

Acts of Greedy Natives, Who Do Not seem to Need Aid—Work at the Concentration Camps—Strange Types of the West Indies—Recovery From the Eruption Will Be Very Slow.

The way relief is distributed to the St. Vincent refugees contrasts strongly with the methods used in Martinique, writes the Kingstonian (St. Vincent, W. I.) correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser under the date of May 29. Six o'clock in the morning at Fort de France finds the Zinnia gardens of the Hotel de Ville crowded with chattering negroes, each with a slip of paper officially stamped in his hand. They gather behind the great blue stucco building, with the gold arms of the republic shining in the sunlight over the doorway, where the stores are piled under shed roofs and in the open air. The clamor is exasperating. There is no queue in it, no sign of suffering in these lusty people. It is impossible to pay them. They are talking of how much they got yesterday, of how much they want today, how this woman got more than that woman, how So-and-so should be ashamed to live on charity. They do not pass the deputy's box in line, for they have not sense enough, so he calls out their names, and they dash forward, grasp the ration, expostulate a second that it is not enough and run through the crowd to the Alcazar or the Casino d'Ete, which are the dance halls where they sleep and where the courtyards smoke with piles of stones over charcoal fires.

Then some hundreds of the men gather again in the government gardens, and an oldish mulatto deputy—every official that works in Martinique is a "deputy"—with a pair of eyeglasses balanced on the tip of his nose calls the roll again, and when the men do not gather across the street as they answer he waves his arms, swears in patois and drops his glasses. When all are marshaled behind him, he starts strutting down the Rue Schloecher to the harbor. The negroes sink along behind. They idle on corners with acquaintances, drop into stores, sneak down a bystreet to the big iron roofed market place. The ceaseless patois murmur is sprung out all along the way; but the deputy does not turn till he has reached the quay, where the Dixie's stores are piled.

Then he faces about furiously, takes off his glasses, shouts and makes faces at the air. The negroes in sight up the street saunter down and jump upon the lumber piles and laugh. Three or four of them the deputy is able to grab by the shoulders, and these he leads to four hand tipcats by the shore. These four begin lazily to load the Dixie stores. The deputy adjusts his glasses, gives his shoulders one vicious shrug (probably murmurs "Ces Americains," though you cannot hear him) and strolls away to the cafe of the Grand Hotel de l'Europe for a vermouth and grenadine.

Things are managed differently in St. Vincent. Some effort is being made there to take supplies to the coast villages, and the steamship Wear leaves daily, either for Georgetown to windward or Chateau Belair to leeward, with tents and food. The distribution is in charge of Chief of Police Colder, an army captain from Jamaica, and Frank Griffiths, who occupies in the colonial government the respective offices of government clerk, deputy chief of police, customs clerk and inspector of schools. Rowboats with the native police are even dispatched to different points on the island to put up tents and distribute rations in two day lots.

At St. Vincent accurate statistics are already at hand of the number of months being fed and the extent of the devastation. Ten square miles, or nearly one-fifth of the island, which contains forty-five square miles, will be uninhabitable for fifteen or twenty years. Exactly 7,163 refugees are being fed and clothed at four concentration camps—Georgetown, Barronville, Chateau Belair and Layou. Three months' supplies are now on hand. In Georgetown itself 500 families, or about 2,500 persons, are being fed in two camps on the north side of Georgetown harbor, one in the old commissary depot, called Edinburgh, under old Fort Charlotte, and the other out upon Low point, near the leper hospital.

The road to the Kingstown relief camps leads north through the low, whitewashed houses with their enormous Roman archways, reaching out over the sidewalk, past the hospital, which looks like an Indian bungalow, and the two great silk cotton trees guarding the graveyard, with its white wood crosses and scarlet poincianas, and climbs the north wall of the old submerged crater in which Kingstown lies. The volcanic tuff is black and oozy, choked with tropical vegetation, and from under the ruins of old Fort Charlotte, on the end of Low point, you can see the curve of the town, which reminds one of prints of a New England seaport in 1800. There is even the horseman riding stiffly on his thin-legged pony, and were it not for a red tiled roof here and there the jagged volcanic "sifters" behind and the heavy line of breadfruit trees along the beach the illusion would be complete.

The relief house is a long, weathered barrack, with hundreds of broken shutters. Carpenters are at work waiting in a porch, children are playing cricket and a Hindoo coolly wanders down the hill shouting:

"Ha-ba-wa-dia-ba-a-a!"

"Ha-a-dia-ba-a-a-a-a-a!" Inside canvas partitions divide the buildings into little cells, each occupied by a family, a bundle of ragged clothes, a frying pan with some cold American rice and a sliced plantain. A very old woman, with a gold cross around her neck and the Carib's hollow cheeks and pointed chin, singsongs, "My daughter killed, my sons twenty-five years have gone overseas, sir, one for the gold mine in America, one for Brazil!"

A naked baby lies asleep on its face in the stifling heat. Outside her bare-legged Carib husband wanders with aboriginal gravity in rag quilt trousers among the noisy Africans. "You ask him, 'Do you understand English?'" and he answers, more wisely than he knows:

"Far as the language—yes."

Then he starts to tell of the darkness, ashes and flood that overcame him near La Soufriere and, drifting into his patois, exclains, "Ah, bouli-bouli-doom, cest gadofolet ina," which, he explains, means, "When the river flood came down, I was much frightened." He has the Indian's straight hair, slant eyes and short, strong legs.

Some of the refugees are mixing water with raw flour and salt codfish and eating it uncooked. They always address me as "master." They follow persistently up the slope to the leper hospital on the tip of the point and when ordered back answer insolently that they are "British subjects." Out in the harbor the Dixie's band is playing.

Kingstown is the sleepiest, slowest place in the Windward Islands. Not a single steam vessel sails from here. Its recovery from the eruption will be very slow. Hardly a week elapsed after the chief of police had settled his accounts of the relief fund for the hurricane of 1885 when this new catastrophe befell the island. The British inhabitants visit the ash covered country above Georgetown and Chateau Belair every day and have not yet climbed the mountain simply because its slopes are still too hot. At Kingstown and at Georgetown, now that rain has washed away the ashes, it is hard to believe that the island has suffered at all.

LARGEST OF DRYDOCKS.

New Shipbuilding Combine Will Erect It on Staten Island Shore.

New York is to have the largest drydock in the world. Plans have been prepared and property is now being acquired, says the New York Herald. More than this those responsible would not say the other day. It is known, however, that the dock is to be built on the eastern shore of Staten Island, not far from quarantine. This is only one of the enterprises contemplated by the organizers of the shipbuilding combination. Concerning the drydock, Lewis Nixon said:

"It is true that a great drydock, probably the greatest in the world, will be constructed here. New York city and the steamship lines that run to this port will have cause to be thankful for the formation of the shipbuilding combination, for the reason that in the near future it can no longer be said that in this, the world's greatest harbor, the largest ship afloat cannot be docked or repaired."

The firms in the new combination are the Union Iron works of San Francisco, the Bath Iron works (limited) and the Hyde Windlass company of Bath, Me.; the Crescent shipyard and the Samuel L. Moore & Sons company of Elizabethport, N. J.; the Eastern Shipbuilding company of New London, Conn.; the Harlan & Hollingsworth company of Wilmington, Del. and the Canda Manufacturing company of Carteret, N. J.

Continuing his talk concerning the combination, Mr. Nixon said: "From the nature of shipbuilding conditions in this country this combination is not for the purpose of putting up prices or in any way restricting production. By economical and efficient management it will be able to reduce the cost of production, and the larger the value of the work in hand the more fully will the advantages of the co-operative combination be realized."

"When the combination is actually formed, it will start with contracts aggregating $37,000,000, which will be cleared from the books within three years. No other industry can so directly benefit the United States generally as one successfully carried out on the lines we propose."

"More directly will New York be benefited than any other city. That is because its greatness depends to a wonderful extent upon its foreign trade. It is a fact that we have long been ashamed to confess that while we have here the best harbor in the world, which is visited by the largest ships afloat, we have not the means of docking or repairing those ships. That condition will be remedied, and as I have told you, a drydock will be built in this harbor which will be large enough to float the greatest of all great ships."

NOT EVEN A HACK.

In the early days of his journalistic career Frank R. Stockton was standing with a group of newspaper men, listening to the eloquence of one of their number, who on the strength of some small authority was giving his views on "higher journalism" in a pompous and bombastic manner.

At the close of a sonorous period he paused for breath, when Stockton, speaking for the first time, ventured mildly to disagree with the opinion expressed.

"Who are you to dispute me?" blazed the great man. "Why, you are only a literary hack."

"Not even that," responded Stockton meekly. "I'm only a common"

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Favors a Boer Colony.

Among the Cape Colony Boers there is reluctance to accept the terms of the peace settlement and return to their old homes. The Cape Colony Boers assisted the South African Boers in their war against England, and as the British government proposes rather severe treatment for these men, who were subjects of the crown, there is a movement on foot to establish colonies in other lands where they may make a new start. Many of the Cape Colony Boers are now in Portugal, where they have been awaiting developments, and some of them are at present in this country. Among the latter is W. D. Snymman, who fought with the Boers as a commandant until near the close of the war. Mr. Snymman says that if proper encouragement is received colonies of Boers will be established in some of the western states and territories of the United States. He thinks this is the best country for them and also affirms that the Cape Colony Boers would make good citizens of this country and that "no one would have occasion to be ashamed of them."

William's Joke.

An amusing story is going the rounds in artistic circles in Berlin about the German emperor. A certain portrait painter had executed a remarkably good portrait of his own little son, representing the latter as sitting on his mother's lap, very much the same as the child in the painting by Rubens. Every one admired the portrait immensely. Not so the little boy, however, who was teased so much by his schoolfellows for being painted "with nothing on" that he came crying to his father and besought him, with many sobs, to paint a shirt on to him. The painter was so tickled at this that he told the story to the emperor one day while his majesty was paying a visit to the studio. The kaiser was extremely amused and when giving instructions about a portrait of himself said, "But not in your little son's costume."

A Shrewd Woman.

Stories told of Mme. Humbert, one of the pair of French swindlers who borrowed $10,000,000 on a mythical inheritance, make her out a most extraordinary woman. One story tells of how she outwitted a sheriff's officer who called upon her with a seizure warrant in behalf of a pressing creditor. Mme. Humbert was very gracious to the officer and offered him a pearl necklace worth 150,000 francs in satisfaction of the claim. It was 5:30 p. m., and the legal day in France expires at 6 p. m. To gain time Mme. Humbert fastened the necklace around her neck that the officer might "see how well it looks upon a woman." Then by the merest accident she snatched one of the threads, and the beautiful pearls were sent rolling over the floor in every direction. While she assisted the officer in securing the scattered pearls she watched the clock. As they arose from the search the clock struck 6. On madame's face the unalike expression gave way to a look of triumph as she said: "Monsieur, it has struck 6. The legal hour is past, and I shall feel obliged if you will take your departure." That night Mme. Humbert left France, and the beautiful necklace went with her.

Mr. Hanna and the Chairmanship.

There is renewed talk in Washington of Senator Hanna retiring from the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. When the senator accepted the chairmanship of this committee in 1900, he did so reluctantly, saying the demands on his time were too great and, as an additional reason, his health was impaired.

Loath to Forsake Old Yale.

Professor Henry Wade Rogers and Dr. Herbert E. Gregory, both of Yale, have been offered respectively the office of dean of the Boston university and head professorship of geology in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston. Professor Wade has declined his honor, and Dr. Gregory is yet considering.

B. &amp; O. EXCURSIONS

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and the Civil War, 1861-1865.

It was the first and most desirable point of vantage coveted by both the Federal and Confederate armies. In May, 1861, the four Federal advance columns concentrated at Parkersburg, W. Va., Wheeling, W. Va., Harper's Ferry, W. Va., and at Washington. To retain the advantage, the Federal Government established block houses along the railroad from the Monocacy to the Ohio river, besides forts at Winchester, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, Piedmont and New Creek (Keyser). The B. & O. was the base of operations for the Federal army for nearly four years and from which the government could not take advance line earlier than November 1864. The B. & O. was the means of communication between the West and the Army of the Potomac, and was consequently in a continual state of siege. Harper's Ferry, the key to the Shenandoah Valley, first famed through the fanatical attempt of John Brown, in defying the laws and customs of his country, was captured and recaptured eight times in three years. The Government Arsenal and armories which were located there, were destroyed by the government to prevent their capture. One hundred and seventy-nine battles of greater or less importance were fought on or adjacent to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, not taking into consideration the innumerable skirmishes.

All through trains from St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, Columbus, Cleveland, Wheeling and Pittsburgh to the East, run via Washington.

Excursion tickets are sold every Sunday between all local stations west of the Ohio river on the Baltimore & Ohio at rate of one fare for the round trip, good going and returning on date of sale only.

COLORADO, UTAH, SOUTH DAKOTA.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. will sell low rate excursion tickets to points in Colorado, Utah and South Dakota during June, July, August and September.

"Johnny," she said, "do you know what became of that cherry pie that was on the second shelf in the pantry?"

"Yes, ma'am," he replied. "I ate it, but I had to."

"You had to?" exclaimed his astonished mother. "What do you mean, child?"

"The teacher asked yesterday if any of us could tell her how many stones there are in a cherry pie, and I couldn't find out without eating the whole pie, could I? There's just 143."

MY OTHER SELF

(Original.)

To see oneself in a mirror, an exact counterpart, the same hair, eyes, features—this is nothing. We see it a hundred times a day. But to see oneself independent of reflection, making different movements, going and coming, sitting, standing, while we are still—this is terrible.

I was standing one morning in my office on the tenth floor of a skyscraper looking out of a window. I remember that I had my hands in my pockets. Suddenly I was startled to see another me standing in a window of an opposite building. The figure was up one story higher. He had his hands in his pockets and wore glasses; I also wear glasses. He had his beard trimmed to a point; so had I. His nose was a trifle bent to the left; so is mine. The only thing that was different was the clothing.

My first emotion was surprise, my second terror. I had been under treatment for nervous troubles, but this was several months before. Were my sufferings about to return under a new form? Was this hallucination? Had my brain become affected? I shrank back from the window and into a chair. My partner saw that something had affected me and asked what it was. I tried to speak, but could not articulate, so I pointed to the window opposite.

"What is it?" he asked, looking. "I see nothing unusual."

Summoning all my fortitude, I looked again. The figure had disappeared. I explained nothing, but immediately went out. Calling a cab, I directed the driver to take me to my physician. I recounted what had occurred, and after endeavoring to reassure me he gave me a quieting mixture and told me to fix my mind on my business.

It was some time before I dared go to the window again, but after going there several times without seeing my double I made up my mind that I was all right again and was beginning to cease thinking of the matter when one day I walked to the window, and just as I reached it my double reached his own window. Our eyes met. Both started back. I with a wildly beating heart, my counterpart with a look of unutterable surprise. I hastily left the office and the next day was on a steamer bound for Southampton, England.

I remained abroad two years. I would not have returned even then had I not received notice from my attorney that I was needed in the settlement of my father's estate. I had had trouble from the first, for my father and mother had separated when I was but a year old, and this naturally led to complications. I had remained with my father, who, I always understood, had what there was to bequeath. My attorney did not inform me as to the nature of this last complication, only intimating that he needed my presence at once. I sailed for New York and on arrival called at the office of Mr. Hazelton, who had summoned me. That there was something of importance on his mind was evident. He looked me all over as if he had never seen me before, then stood, still looking at me, without saying anything.

"Well, what is it?" I asked impatiently.

"Did you ever hear that your mother left property?" he asked.

"No."

"Or that she had an interest in your father's estate?"

"No. My mother died before my father."

"There is a piece of property which we must sell before settling the estate. It was owned jointly by your father and mother. At any rate, it needs the signature of the heirs of both."

"Very well. Am I not the heir of both?"

"Come here tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. I shall want your signature."

"Explain."

"Tomorrow at 9 o'clock," he repeated and went into his private office.

At the appointed hour I was at Mr. Hazelton's office and was told to wait in an anteroom. Presently the door opened, and I was ushered into the main room. At the same moment a door opposite me opened, and a man advanced into the room I had entered.

Horror of horrors, he was my double! We stood looking at each other like the two Dromedaries, he in wonder, I in terror.

"Oh, heavens!" I moaned. "It has come back to me!"

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Hazelton, "I need the signature of both of you to a deed. You are twin brothers."

"Twin brothers!" we exclaimed in a breath.

"Yes. When your father and mother separated, your father took one, your mother the other. It was agreed between them that each child should be kept in ignorance of the other."

The relief—the finding of a brother, a twin brother, of whose existence I had been in ignorance—was a delight that can only be understood by experience. It did not require that we should have been brought up together to feel that strong fraternal drawing always to be found in children of a single birth. We advanced, embraced and cried simultaneously:

"You are?"

"Max."

"Mark."

I was Max, and he was Mark. No twins ever more clearly resembled each other, and Mr. Hazelton, with a lawyer's instinct, seized a pen and scratched our respective names on our cuffs to preserve the identity of each. My brother on seeing me at my window had been similarly affected as I. Even the pleasure at finding one another has not to this day obliterated from either the horror of encountering a double.

YALE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

In the presence of 6,000 enthusiastic partisans Yale and Princeton played the deciding game for the inter-collegiate championship, at the Polo grounds in New York city, each team having one game to its credit. Princeton scored three in the first and up to the seventh looked to be sure winners, but the Blue fell on Underhill and although Stevens was substituted in the eighth he could not stem the tide and the sons of old Eli won 5 to 4. Yale outbatted Princeton 9 to 5, but their fielding was ragged. Yale made 5 errors to Princeton's 1.

A CLOSE GAME.

WELL KNOWN CLERGYMAN.

Baptist Minister's Tribute to Dr. George H. Hepworth's Memory.

Among the many tributes paid to the memory of the late Rev. Dr. George H. Hepworth of New York here is one, says the New York Herald, from Dr. R. S. MacArthur of the Calvary Baptist church, in New York. He said, "I had not heard of Dr. Hepworth's illness, therefore I was not prepared to hear of his death. He was a man of unusual attainments and personality. He quickly won and always held the confidence, esteem and affection of all with whom he came in contact. Shortly after I came to New York, in 1870, he attained the height of his popularity and power as a preacher in the Church of the Messiah. He was then a Unitarian. I chanced to be present at the service on the Christmas day when, I believe, he preached the sermon which led to his separation from the Unitarian body. A great audience assembled, and he spoke with remarkable intensity of feeling. His voice was always most sweet and musical. His modulations were worth the imitation of all public speakers. On this occasion he rose to wonderful heights of pulpit eloquence, for he was uttering the deepest convictions of his soul. It was a crisis in his life, and he felt it. "Great excitement followed the sermon of that day. The orthodox preachers rallied around him and gave him cordial welcome to their ranks. He was elected a member of several clerical circles to which I chanced to belong, and I came into close and delightful fraternal relations with him. "Soon after this sermon Steinway hall was obtained by his friends, and there he preached to audiences which filled the hall to its utmost capacity. He showed at once his wonderful power over men. Here he had the largest congregations ever assembled at that time in any Protestant gathering in New York. He showed remarkable power for simple, tender and affectionate statements of the simple gospel. Later a church gathered around him, and the unique structure of corrugated iron was built for him in Madison avenue near Forty-fourth street. His power of exposition was exceptional. "Later he left the pulpit and entered upon his work for the distressed people of Ireland in connection with the benevolent work of the New York Herald. He did remarkable work in relieving distress in Ireland and then entered upon a similar career in Armenia. Many of his brethren in the ministry regret that he left the work of the ministry and the pulpit, but he found in the Herald a pulpit that was high in its position and far-reaching in its influence. His sermonettes touched millions of hearts in various parts of the world—sweet in spirit, tender in appeal and powerful toward the moral betterment of all readers. His spirit was broad theologically. His sympathies were boundless as the human race, and only the great God himself can adequately measure the influence for good that went out from his clean hand and brave heart."

NEW GOLF CHAMPION.

The woman's golf championship has changed hands. Mrs. Edward A. Manice beat the champion Miss Hecker in the semi-finals Thursday, and Miss Hernandez, the runner up, on Saturday. While Mrs. Manice scored a victory, it was not popular with the gallery, for the reason that Mr. Manice carried for his wife, and the Essex Club's candidate refused to be coached, playing modestly and coolly, with only her club caddy at her side.

POPULAR LINEN DRESSES.

They Are Made With Strapped Seams and Trimmed With Coarse Lace.

Linen dresses are to be very smart this summer. There is a new shade of reseda green much used for dresses of this kind. It is trimmed with heavy white lace and touches of black velvet. Linen dresses are made with fairly long skirts heavily strapped and are worn with Russian blouses decorated with lace or the smartest of coats with Irish crochet collars. Scarlet and navy blue are perhaps the most useful shades, but there is just now a demand for purple and mauve, which make up charmingly with ecru lace.

A linen dress is harder to make than one thinks, and many a beautiful piece of material has been spoiled by a sagging skirt and a sloppy looking waist. Linen requires careful fitting and accurately stitched seams to look at all well after even a couple of wearings.

A very smart linen suit is shown in the illustration. The material is striped ecru and white, and it is trimmed with strapped applications of plain ecru linen. The blouse has a collar of all over lace over a pale blue foundation. With this is worn a waist of tucked batiste, a pale blue sunshade and a hat of black and white straw trimmed with a pale blue and a tan ostrich feather.

floances that many net and gauze skirts are covered almost to the waist with tiny frills. Tunic draperies are entirely tucked or alternately tucked and inserted from the top of the skirt, and floances or frills of varying dimensions surround the hem.

Glaze or satin slips are usually made with a separate floance, but so arranged with a stitched strapping over the seam that the effect is almost that of a plain skirt, but the edge is extremely full, and the back spreads out well. The heavier makes of Roman satin form delightful slips for the present limp trailing fashion of skirts, and with one in white or cream and another in black several variations can be effected with transparent robes.

This dainty muslin gown has both waist and skirt tucked in a down point. The sleeves end at the elbow and are supplemented by under sleeves of tucked white muslin. The neck is collarless, and the wide floance at the bottom of the skirt is headed and edged by two narrow floances. The costume is trimmed with perpendicular bands of lace insertion.
